Editor's Window

There is a light in the Editor's Window today. A little girl has put it there.

It is her flame, you see; a simple, trusting, sweetly radiant light that shames our ancient gloom.

I thought, perhaps, you might want to have her light in your window, too. And so, I give you what she wrote, in careful hand, on foolscap, tracing along the straight blue lines these words:

BROTHERHOOD—Brotherhood means so that everyone should be close together, in other words it means that everyone should be, kind of friends with everyone in the world. Like let's say we had a Japanese child a Hungarian a French and many others in school. Well we wouldn't like each other probably because of their color and looks. Well brotherhood means that we all get together and be friends. If we didn't have brotherhood then we would probably have a hundred wars. So let's hope that everyone has brotherhood. It also means we all kind of act like brothers and sisters of God because we are.

Christmas Is A Matter Of Timing

How soon we should commence harking to the herald angels was a subject of grave soul-searching at last night's meeting of the City Council.

The Carmel Business Association, as it has for as long as living man can remember, asked the council to turn on the illuminated Christmas trees at Junipero and Ocean, and Monte Verde and Ocean, on 1 December. The council has steadfastly, for years, ordered the lights for 15 December.

But last night they almost didn't turn them on at all. Ever. Any more.

The absence of councilman Herbert B. Blanks deprived the council of a tie-breaker, and a two-to-two vote on the motion of Councilman Francis Whitaker, to turn on the lights on the 15th, left the council with nothing to act on—since the tie vote, in effect, defeated the motion—and it was obvious that an alternative motion to light up on 1 December would suffer similar bafflement.

In a rapid, nimble and enchanting series of ensuing parliamentary maneuvers, the matter was finally put over to the next meeting of the council, 5 December. But it got there only after some heated objections from Councilman Frank Putnam: "It's a shame to ignore the principal business organizations of this city. We should listen to them once in a while, instead of ignoring them each year."

Councilman James Buffington, Jr., saw no objection to the request, either: "I enjoy seeing them lighted, no matter what time of year."

But not so Mayor Eben Whittlesey or Councilman Whitaker—traditionalists, they—who think the 15th is soon enough.

But, don't worry, Tiny Tim. There is a Santa Claus.

"Well, you don't HAVE to look like that, dear. After all, it was only an election."

A Lamb At School, But Not Mary's

This is the story of a lamb and a little red school house, but not the one with Mary as heroine. It is rather a Carmel version of the plot, and it involves thwarted hopes, rising costs, unresolved problems and, yes, even sex.

Also, it has a much larger cast of characters, including 29 Carmel youngsters, and Senator Fred S. Farr.

But to get to the beginning, Senator Farr bought the lamb this summer at the fair. As a friendly, nonpolitical gesture, he presented it to the youngsters of the Carmel Co-op Nursery which meets in the little red Bay School house but was not at the time in session.

When fall came along and school began, there was still no place to confine a lively lamb there. It was only recently, after a group of co-op fathers constructed a sheepfold beside the playground, that the lamb could be brought to his new home and rightful owners, all 29 of them.

Meanwhile, with the passage of so much time, the lamb was nibbling through stacks and stacks of expensive alfalfa and whatever else it takes to keep a lamb happy, and he was, of course, growing. His appearance at the school brought comments from by-standing adults such as: "That's no lamb; that's a ram." And, "Take down those fences, pardner. This is cattle country!"

Now a new quandary arose. Co-op mothers, wanting to make the most of opportunity, had planned to somehow acquire a ewe lamb too and, in a minor way, go into the sheep business. But suddenly no one knew, or could discern in any way, whether the lamb

City Council Meeting Notes

At last night's meeting the city council:

APPROVED first reading of an ordinance reclassifying for a parking lot the property on the southwest corner of Dolores and Fourth;

APPROVED a resolution endorsing a Junipero Serra memorial stamp;

TRIED, but failed, to name the First and Mission street recreation park Forest Hill Park, and returned the matter to committee;

SET A HEARING for 9 January, 1963, on a petition of Stephen Grant and Elizabeth Kynaston to have two pieces of property on Valley Way, opposite the Carmel Convalescent Home, annexed to the city;

SET FOUR HEARINGS for 5 December on ordinances to permit veterinary hospitals, eliminate the use of private dwellings for offices of professional people, and reclassify property on the southeast

Bird Conservation Film

The Long Flight Back, narrated by Kenneth Morrison, will be presented by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the Carmel Adult School at Sunset School auditorium this evening at 8 p.m.

Kenneth Morrison, now director of the famed Mountain Lake Sanctuary and Singing Tower at Lake Wales, Florida, has for 20 years been a writer and speaker on subjects pertaining to natural resource conservation. Throughout his career Mr. Morrison has been especially active in promoting better public understanding of birds of prey, and in the saving of species of wildlife threatened with extinction. His articles on nature and conservation subjects have appeared in Audubon Magazine, Natural History, American Forests, Farm Journal and This Week.

In the last century alone, man has lost completely and irrevocably the passenger pigeon, the Carolina parakeet and the Labrador duck.

Nature in the balance is a delicate thing. Today the vanishing whooping crane, roseate spoonbill and American flamingo have been threatened with extinction. It is thought that the chief threat to these species is not adjustment to environment, but indifference on the part of man to their fate. However, they have not quite gone the way of the passenger pigeon, thanks to the National Audubon Society and other conservation agencies.

The Long Flight Back is the story of returning wings from near extinction to survival; a story of threatened wildlife from the Caribbean to the Mackenzie. It is a revealing account in color motion pictures of the last-ditch fight to save our vanishing wildlife.

Regional Scout Meet

Elwood J. Wilson of Carmel has been appointed by Philip Magruder of Los Angeles to serve as chairman of the Region XII, Boy Scouts of America, annual meeting on 8, 9, 10 November.

To be held in Monterey, the meeting is expected to attract over 1,000 Scouters and wives from five western states. Headquarters will be at the Mark Thomas Inn with additional sessions to be held at the Casa Munras and U.S./Naval Postgraduate School.

A number of local Scout people are assisting with hosting responsibilities. Richard and Marjorie Bennett, Del Monte Forest, are preparing a ladies program which will include an adobe tour.

Registrations will begin Thurs-

NEW MUSSEL QUARANTINE

Myron W. Husband, M.D., director of public health for Monterey County, has announced that the mussel quarantine established 1 May, has been extended until further notice.

The quarantine had originally been scheduled to terminate on 31 October, but the continuing high toxic level found in mussels necessitates that it be extended in the interest of health of the public. Therefore, persons are warned against the taking of mussels from the coastal waters of Monterey County until the toxic level decreases and the quarantine is lifted.

Highway One To Bypass Cambria

Construction and realignment of State Highway One to bypass Cambria in San Luis Obispo County will get underway shortly.

Bids will be opened 14 November in Sacramento. Actual work should begin early in December, depending upon when the contract is awarded to the qualified low bidder.

The 4.3-mile Highway One project will consist of grading and paving to construct a two-lane expressway on new alignment about 1.5 miles south of Cambria and one-half mile south of San Simeon Creek. The new route will bypass

Cambria on the west and will skirt Cambria Pines Manor. Two new bridges will be constructed over Santa Rosa Creek, one of the bridges for the county of San Luis Obispo with county funds.

Completion of the project is expected about September, 1963, barring unforeseen obstacles.

Letters . . .

PROPER PERSPECTIVE

Dear Sir:
I am devoted to the Pine Cone because it reads like fiction, makes magnificent mountains out of molehills, cares a great deal about food and literature and not a whit (apparently) about Cuba, and has the most interesting obituaries I've ever read. These are just some of the reasons. You're welcome.

Sincerely,
Patricia G. Cokely,
9700 13th Avenue,
Hanford, California.

ATTENTION N. Y. TIMES

Dear Sir:
Please start sending the Pine Cone to our home again. Can't live without it.

We cancelled you to take the new western N. Y. Times — but — you win!

Sincerely,
Mrs. W. W. Merchant,
146 No. Dowdy Street,
Gilroy, California.

PT. LOBOS ADMISSIONS

Box 15, South Laguna,
November 7, 1962.

Chief Edward F. Dolder,
Division of Beaches and Parks,
Sacramento,
California.

Dear Mr. Dolder,

I am a retired university professor eager to know if you can facilitate greater use of Point Lobos Reserve and other state parks by reducing the cost of frequent admissions by car. My wife and I have been coming to the Monterey Peninsula for two months each year largely because of the unrivaled beauty of its coastline. Each fine day we take our car to Lobos and park it outside the gate while we walk the trails and roads of this peerless place. Our car would add to our comfort and mobility on these many trips if the cost of taking it in was within our budget. I have mentioned this every year to the rangers on duty at the gate

The Carmel High School Padre football games have been broadcast over Carmel's hometown station, KRML, 1410 on the radio dial during the current season. Responsible for the play-by-play broadcasts were Beryle Gonzales, station manager, Al Nealan, sports-caster, and Jimmie Smith, son of the owner of KRML. Jimmie was in charge of keeping running statistics for the Padres games.

without any satisfactory explanation, and so asked yesterday for your name and address. There must be thousands of residents of our magnificent state who would use its parks more often if they could afford to do so.

Toward this end may I suggest the issuance of 20 admission tickets at $10.00 good for one year each, to be punched each time like a commutation ticket on a train. The result in use and in revenue might surprise you.

Yours sincerely,
D. Crane Taylor.

Editor's note: Mr. Taylor asked us to print his letter to Mr. Dolder as he hopes it may call attention to his suggestion, also that persons who agree with him may be led to support his request.

Wares At Home Again

After a summer spent for the most part on Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Ware are back in their Carmel home. Mrs. Ware returned first, in order to take up her duties as registrar at Robert Louis Stevenson School. Mr. Ware arrived later, and tells of a restful and interesting summer, "with a lot of sailing."

Before joining Mrs. Ware and their daughter, Ciji, at the house they rented on Martha's Vineyard, Mr. Ware spent some time in Hollywood working on the screen play of his story, Son-In-Law For Charlie McReady, which was published last fall by McCall's magazine. The film version will be produced by the Disney Studios, and Mr. Ware reports that its locale will be the Monterey Peninsula.

Mr. Ware, who had not been East for some time, was impressed by the changes in the cities, principally New York and Chicago. "The old brownstone houses are being knocked down in favor of 'high risers'; this makes a striking skyline. I also got the impression of a happy, active people, full of vitality."

Of the Wares' daughter, Ciji, now in her junior year at Radcliffe College, her father reports that she is an official teacher at Harvard, with her name in the Radcliffe catalog. She gives one class a week in musical comedy dancing. Ciji's major is history, but her avocation is theatre and dancing, for which she gained much preliminary experience while she attended Carmel High School, studying under Joanne Nix, and appeared in eight or ten plays and musical shows at the Wharf and Golden Bough Circle Theatres.

Where There's Life

By Andre Hope

Happy Hallowe'en! Or at least that's the way things stood the last time we sat down together. Due to the special election edition we were out. Hope the people and things for which you voted are "in." Also trust you were big about it.

If you won, did you have your wrong-guessing friends over for fatted calf (steak) or high-off-the-hog (pork chops)?

Naturally, if you lost you must have served humble pie and coffee.

Meanwhile, back to Eerie Eve. We celebrated it at Nepenthe on the Big Sur. This is really more a state of mind than a restaurant. It was a marvelous party. A wizard witch was Kim Novak (you do, too, know who she is), all bedecked in old black magic. Artist Don Bloom wore the most comfortable costume—his pajamas and bath robe. You've not seen everything until you've watched a Zulu king and his court doing the twist. Best costumes of all, we thought, were a couple, whose names we unfortunately could not get, all furnished as little people from some far star. They wore head-gear with spinning wind-mills and inner tubes under their green longies, nicely positioned so that they could still get close enough to one another to dance.

It was almost-anything-can-happen night, though, closely as I watched the fire on the terrace, the devil never did rise from it. Perhaps he will when they re-open on April Fool's Day.

Don't look behind you, because Thanksgiving is snapping at your heels. I have a hint from a terrific housekeeper who used to sweep my daily errors under the carpet. She rode a motorcycle to work and then changed into some of the daintiest pinafores one could imagine. "Honey Babe," she suggested, "Buy your mincemeat early, pour a couple jolts of sippin' whisky in to it and, my, you got pie!" And so you do!

Another suggestion: if you intend to use chestnuts in your dressing, Le Gourmet and Kip's Market have 'em already peeled and ready to go, in the can. They may seem a little expensive, but when you add to the cost of the fresh ones the price of burn lotion, band-aids and kleenex for your frustrated tears, they are a bargain.

THE GREAT MEAT LOAF CONTEST

Because we have been out of circulation for a week or two, our contest for the best meat loaf recipe on the Peninsula will be extended until Friday, 16 November. Send your recipe to me, care of this newspaper or whisper it in my ear. The prize will be a surprise dinner for two at one of our finest restaurants. Winner will be announced in our Thanksgiving issue. I feel silly mentioning this—but I am Mrs. Andre Hope (female-type woman) not "Mr." as several letters have been addressed to me.

Isn't November wonderful when "Night drips from the trees into Dark ponds, Dawn washes its face in them—Sparkles."

Guild Fashion Show

The Monterey County Symphony Guild is concentrating on final preparations for its Symphonie d' Elegance, a luncheon and fashion show on 15 November at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

Distinctive features of this project will be not only a glamorous collection of I. Magnin fashions, but also a showing of the very latest in men's apparel. The "game" which is also another feature will be patterned after "The Price Is Right" in which guests will approximate the cost of five costumes. The prize will be a $50 merchandise certificate from Magnin's.

Tickets may be secured from Mrs. James Moore, Box 2033, Carmel.

Mrs. Sally Stotler is general chairman of arrangements. Models will be: Mrs. Hugh Dormody, Mrs. William H. Craven, Mrs. Robert Mackay Brown, Mrs. Frank Caulfield, Mrs. John Gosling, Mrs. Richard J. Long, Mrs. Henry Jones, Mrs. Bruce Meyer, Mrs. James Neibel, Jr., Mrs. Charles O'Gara, Mrs. Barbara Stone, Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Orlando Troxel, Jr., Mrs. Rudolph ver Mehr, Mrs. David Wisnom, Mrs. Francis Gardner, Mrs. Donald Smythe, Mrs. Jack Miller, Mrs. Peter Caryle, Mrs. Charles Strosnider, Mrs. Charles Crombe, Mrs. Richard Osborne, Mrs. Roger Botty, Mrs. John Derdivanis, and the Misses Virginia von Hasseln and Jan Carpenter.

Modeling men's fashions will be Charles O'Gara, Captain William H. Craven, Jr., Frank Elton, John Gosling, Hugh Hannon, Shreve M. Archer, Jr., Laurence Horan, and Howard S. Bucquet.

Marlinda von Ruhs is assisting the committee on decorations which includes Mrs. Philip Smith, Mrs. Mark Raggett, Mrs. Robert Goulding, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Neibel.

Hostess chairman is Mrs. Burton Doolittle, hospitality chairman of the guild.

The Sur Coast

Elizabeth Fuller Jones

This week end two Baroque concerts will be given at Big Sur Hot Springs, 50 miles south of Carmel on Highway One. The San Francisco Baroque Ensemble, under the direction of Erika M. Matthes, will present tomorrow evening at 8:30.

On Sunday afternoon, 11 November at 1:30 p.m., the program will include the following works of Bach: quintet for two flutes, violin, cello and harpsichord; sonata for flute and continuo; sonata for clarinet, bassoon and harpsichord; Brandenburg Concerto Number 5, for flute, violin, harpsichord and strings.

Once a month poetry readings will be given at the Hot Springs, until June. This Saturday evening, 8:00 o'clock, readings will be by David Meltzer and Andrew Hoyem. These readings are part of a series entitled Voices: 1962-63.

Every Saturday night is movie night at the Big Sur Grange Hall. The time is 8:00 o'clock. Admission for adults is 75 cents; children 35 cents. Films to be shown this month are: 10 November, Treasure Island (color); 17 November, The Gunfighter; 24 November, Anchors Aweigh (color).

Every Sunday morning at 9:30, church services are held in the Grange Hall, Big Sur, by the Santa Lucia Chapel of the Episcopal Church. Church school is Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Since June of 1961, services are held out-of-doors in the summer months on the church property located at River Village. The members and the congregation are looking forward to a future building program on the six-acre site. A master plan has already been developed.

In Pacific Valley, 60 miles south of Carmel, near the edge of Monterey County, is one of the few publicly owned beach areas between Carmel and the county line. There, the United States Department of Agriculture, Forest Service, maintains as part of the Los Padres National Forest, Sand Dollar Beach and picnic area for free use by the public. Nearby is Plaskett Creek Camp Ground for overnight campers.

For the second year Cinema Sur will be shown at Coast Gallery in Big Sur. This film series, which began on Sunday, will continue twice monthly through March, and will include such well-known films as Kings Row and Water Birds. The films are offered through a closed membership and further information may be obtained from La Verne Allen at the Gallery.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

A teenage girl came in the other day and asked the children's librarian where the C books were. Thinking along another track, the librarian showed her books on the sea, on sailing, and kindred subjects. "No," said the girl, "I mean the letter C. Actually, the book I want is the C-Wolf by London." Now who's mixed up? First cousin to a T-man or an FBI agent, we suppose.

This library is beginning an experiment in fast service in supplying popular books. At least we think we are beginning it. A service on books on temporary loan from a firm called the McNaughton Books, Inc., will place in this library a permanent collection of 300 new books, adding 30 new books each month, after which this library returns to the company 30 books which are not circulating fast enough. The thing about this is the fact that these books will come to us at publication time without our ordering them, so that we will be the fastest with the mostest in popular reading materials. We did the original work on this plan in September, and it was supposed to start in October, but here it is November and we are still without the original collection. So we keep our little fingers crossed and hope for a sight of the books in the near future.

We order most of our popular reading materials from the Monterey County Library, which at this time is in difficulty because the jobber through which they have been ordering books has gone bankrupt. So all orders had to be cancelled and placed with a different and more solvent dealer. This explains the lack of new books on our shelves right now, but is scant comfort when you are browsing for something to read... and can find little to interest you. Courage, courage!

If you want to know what went on to prepare for Pearl Harbor, you should read Pearl Harbor: Warning and Decision, by Roberta Wohlstetter. In the foreword, which was written by Thomas Schelling of Harvard University, we may read that "It would be reassuring to believe that Pearl Harbor was just a colossal and extraordinary blunder. It was just a dramatic failure of a remarkably well-informed government to call the

New, Significant Book On Larkin

First and Last Consul, a volume of hitherto unpublished letters selected and edited by John A. Hawgood, is a significant addition to the published history of California because it focuses on the role Thomas A. Larkin, U. S. Consul in Monterey, played in the Americanization of this state.

In previous pictures of the change-over from Mexican to United States government, the importance of Larkin appears somewhat blurred, but Mr. Hawgood, by means of carefully chosen correspondence, enlarges the view of events which led to the acquisition of California by the United States to present Larkin's contributions in bold relief.

"The role of Larkin in the movement to secure California for the United States and to reconcile the Mexican Californians to American rule, both before and after the occupation took place, has been much misunderstood and misrepresented by historians and publicists," Mr. Hawgood states in his introduction to First and Last Consul. He deplores the fact that nowhere in California is there any memorial to Larkin other than the house in Monterey he built and used as his consulate. And this memorial was presented to the state by Larkin's granddaughter, Mrs. Alice Larkin Toulmin, he points out.

"It is possible that but for Larnext enemy move in a cold-war crisis. We just expected wrong. And it was not our warning that was most at fault, but our strategic analysis." The author of the book, Mrs. Wohlstetter, is now at work on a study of Cuba for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

The State of California is vitally interested in the Point Reyes Peninsula and its recent designation as a national seashore park. The Sierra Club has published a beautiful book entitled Island in Time: The Point Reyes Peninsula. It was written by Harold Gilliam, and the superb photographs were done by Philip Hyde. This lovely book deserved a hard cover binding, but ours is in laminated paper and it must be assumed that this is the only available cover. Right now let us say that if you cut or mar this book in any way while it is in your hands, we will put the Irish curse on you and enjoy doing it!

By the end of the week there will be some new fiction, but at this juncture we are living such a hand-to-mouth existence we can't give you the authors or titles. In some ways it's sort of exciting, but not very.

and Stripes were run up on the Customs House in Monterey. Later that year he was imprisoned as a hostage in Los Angeles by Californians who resisted the American occupation, but was treated well, his letters reveal in First and Last Consul.

The book also relates in the published correspondence that Larkin returned to his affairs as a merchant and landholder following this episode. In 1849 he left Monterey and moved to San Francisco when that city began to boom as a consequence of the Gold Rush, but continued to work for the welfare of California.

Most of the correspondence is between Larkin and his vice consul in San Francisco, William A. Leidesdorff. Letters to and by other persons aid in picturing the conscientious manner in which Larkin represented the United States in California, also the problems of the isolated American settlers. They also proclaim him a generous host and astute merchant during an unsettled period in California history.

Lively introductions to each of the seven chapters, written by Mr. Hawgood, relate following letters to the history of the era. The chapters are titled: The Flag Follows Trade; Trader Cum Consul; Increased Consular Activity and Rumors of War; Stormy Petrels: Hastings, Fremont, and Gillespie; The Bear Flag—The Taking of Sonoma; The American Occupation—Army Versus Navy; Gold From The American River—But Not For Mr. Leidesdorff. The prologue is called California and The World in 1831; the epilogue, A Decade Later—Halcyon Days No More.

To the student of California History, First and Last Consul should be invaluable; to the collector, a treasure. It is also an admirable introduction to the life and history (Continued on Page Eleven)

Stock Market Analysis

By John D. Gates

TAX SAVINGS

One point that often is overlooked in contemplating the sale of securities for tax loss purposes is that a husband and wife can take $2000 of net capital loss if they file separate returns. If they file a joint return, they can take only $1000.

This is even more significant in a situation where the loss of a larger sum is involved. The law permits the deduction of $1000 of net capital loss in the year of the loss. It also permits the carry forward for the next five years of any unused portion of that loss. This amounts to a total of $6,000 on a single tax return such as a joint return of a husband and wife.

However, if a husband and wife were to file separate returns, they could deduct an aggregate during that period of twice the $6,000, or a total deduction of $12,000. The tax saving could be a considerable sum.

Of course, as in any tax situation, there are other questions to consider, such as whether the securities are jointly owned. Another point to be noted is that this applies to "net capital loss," meaning the remaining loss after offsetting other gains and losses against each other.

It is none too soon to start thinking about sales for tax purposes. If you hold a stock in which you have a loss, you may not want to sell it for fear of being left behind in a rising market. If you sell it and buy it back within 30 days, the loss is disallowed.

There are two common ways to protect your position. One way is to sell it and buy stock of another company in the same industry. This assumes that the market action of securities of similar companies will be more or less uniform. That is, the rail stocks will move together, also the chemicals, oils, steels, etc. After 30 days, you can sell your new stock and buy back the original stock, if you so desire.

The other way takes more cash. You can double up on your holdings for a 30-day period, and at the end of 30 days, sell your original stock, being sure to deliver the certificates, originally owned and not those recently purchased. In other words, if you owned 100 shares of Sinclair Oil, in which you have a loss, you would buy another 100 shares of Sinclair Oil, and at the end of 30 days, you would sell the original 100 share certificate. Any transaction of this type should be initiated in November in order to effect the sale before the end of the year.

Many are reluctant to take a loss even though it may mean an actual cash benefit at tax-paying time. Actually, if one security is bought at the same time that another one is sold, all that is occurring is the exchange of stock for stock, and an investor's position is not fundamentally changed.

In any event, up to $1,000 of the excess of losses over gains may be deducted from other taxable income, and a husband and wife, by filing separate returns, may each be entitled to take advantage of the $1,000 limit.

PENINSULA AUDUBON SOCIETY

The regular monthly meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will be held in the music room of Carmel High School tomorrow at 8 p.m. Preceding the meeting, Paul Beard will speak on Primitive Camping and show colored slides taken during three summers in a youth camp located within the Klamath-Trinity Alps wilderness area. Mr. Beard has been for a number of years a teacher in the Monte Vista School in Monterey and is known as an authority on butterflies and as a student of ornithology.

A field trip has been planned to Pinnacles National Monument on Saturday. Instructions are: Follow the highway from Hollister south or take the Gloria Grade road which intersects Highway 101 just south of Gonzales. A park naturalist will meet the group at the bridge at the intersection of the Old Pinnacles road in the Monument at 9 a.m.

The monthly meeting of the Bird-a-Month section will be held at the home of Miss Beatrice Howitt, 1006 Benito Avenue, Pacific Grove, on Wednesday at 10 a.m. Topic for discussion will be Rare, Unusual and Uncommon Fall and Winter Visitors to the Peninsula.

Also scheduled for Wednesday is an invitation to join the Santa Cruz Bird Club on a tour of good Santa Cruz birding areas. Meet at West Lake on Majors Street, Santa Cruz, at 9 a.m.

A center for dispensing information about birds in the area is a new feature of the society. Mrs. G. P. Lamont is the chairman for this service. Persons interested in identifying a bird or in relaying the observation of a rare or unusual species may telephone MAYfair 4-7812.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the Society's events and field trips. Picnic lunches should be brought for all day trips.

TOWN HOUSE

Costumes Through the Ages, 3000 B.C. to 1912, the talk to be given by Miss Hazel McLellan, will be illustrated by an exhibit of her authentically dressed dolls at Carmel Foundation Town House at 3 p.m. on Wednesday. The talk will be followed by tea. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Miss McLellan has lived in Carmel ever since she returned from her Red Cross work in 1948. She has always been active in the costuming of plays put on at the Forest Theater and Circle Theatre. She studied costume design in Southern California. It is an absorbing hobby of hers with which she has made a contribution to the life of Carmel.

Anyone wishing to have Thanksgiving dinner at Town House should make arrangements as soon as possible.

KIWANIS

At last Thursday's meeting of the Carmel Kiwanis Club, Don Mitchell reported on a recent visit to Miami which coincided with the first two days of the Cuban crisis, and a return through Jackson, Mississippi. He described constant troop movements toward Key West during the crisis; rebel flags flying in Mississippi, and many civilians carrying arms as a result of the situation at the University of Mississippi.

MISSION ALTAR SOCIETY

Carl Bensberg will be introduced by Mrs. John Francis Doud, program chairman, at next Thursday's meeting of the Carmel Mission Altar Society. Mr. Bensberg recently returned from a summer in Europe and will show pictures he took in Yugoslavia.

The meeting will take place at 2:30 at Torre Munras, on the corner of Rio Road and Santa Lucia Street. Hostesses will be Mrs. Mae Koch, Mrs. Nora Walker and Mrs. Helen Bourke.

CARMEL CRAFTS GUILD

Tomorrow at 8 p.m., Doris Birkland will present her impressions of Morocco preceding a general meeting of the Carmel Crafts Guild at the Carmel Arts Association Galleries. She will supplement her talk with color transparencies and examples of Moroccan crafts. The public is invited.

Evidence of a successful beginning of this year's duck season is shown by Jim Bannerman and his son, Jim, who were at Los Banos on the opening day last month, along with Dr. James Finley and Fred Leidig. "One of the best days I can remember in 40 years of duck hunting," commented Fred. Naturally, everyone bagged his limit.

HIGH LIGHTS

BY TOM ARNOLD

Last week's game started with Carmel receiving the kick-off. Both the Padres and the Acorns were forced into punting situations early in the game, but as the first quarter wore on, it became clear that Carmel had a far superior team. The assault, headed by Dave Preve and Bob Wells, defensively, and by Danny Holman, John Thomas, and Jim Kelley, offensively, reaped only six points in the first quarter. Holman, faking a pass, hotfooted it around the left end for a 20-yard touchdown. Dick McClean, who did most of the conversion kicking for the evening, misplaced the kick far to the left. Carmel left the first quarter with a narrow margin of 6-0.

The second quarter saw more scoring, although most of it was defensive. Gary Mumford, playing defensive backfield on his own two-yard line, intercepted a pass and ran 98 yards for a touchdown. He was aided by some fine downfield blocking, proving that even in an "easy victory game" the Padres can still make it exciting. Dick McClean successfully kicked the extra point onto the scoreboard, making our lead 13-0. Dave Preve also intercepted a pass; but he only had to run 45 yards for his touchdown. About this time Dennis Clark made one of his famous tackles, throwing the poor Acorn 10 feet into the air. Then Holman passed to Kelley, advancing the ball 25 yards. From this position Danny was able to score the second offensive touchdown by passing to Tom Faia for 20 yards. The extra point again was lost; the ball hit the crossarm and bounced fieldward. Carmel left the half-time with a lead of 25-0.

Play resumed with Carmel kicking off out of bounds on Live Oak's 5-yard line. They took over on their 40-yard line, and after Kelley had tackled the quarterback for a loss of 12 yards, Thomas intercepted a pass on the 45-yard line to bring in the offensive team. This offense, headed by Jim Kelley at quarterback, succeeded in making few yards. The fans did, however, see some mighty strange formation, including two quarterbacks at once and John Whittaker in the backfield. Shenanigan followed shenanigan, until finally Holman reclaimed his rightful position and threw the ball to Tom Faia for a 7-yard six points. With no conversion point, the score stood 31-0. Grant Pollock kicked a banana kick. Jim Markowitz and Clayton Hilbert collaborated on the tackle; all efforts to score by the Acorns were unsuccessful.

There is only one word which can describe the fourth quarter—WILD. It was a repeat of the third quarter, although without the scoring. The final tally left Carmel with 31 points and Live Oak with nothing. Here are the finals on the game. For Live Oak: rushing, 55 yards; passing, 131 yards from fourteen completed throws out of 42 tries, with four interceptions, one each for Mumford, Thomas, Preve, and McCarthy; 11 first downs; 10 yards' loss in penalties; and two recovered fumbles. Carmel, which lost statistically, ended up with these results: rushing, 60 yards; passing, 86 yards—six completed passes from only 11 tries, with two interceptions; 6 first downs; 10 yards against us in penalties, and one unrecovered fumble.

Sport Cars

BY ED LESLIE

SPORTS CARS

This is the month that England displays its new cars. At a gigantic auto show at Earl's Court all the new ones are introduced. Many startling models are kept secret until they show, since much of Europe considers this the place that public receptions may best be judged. Certainly, this year, there is much to be judged. I wonder a bit about the Americanizing of the imported car. It is done with an eye to the huge American market, no doubt, and to the huge American dollar, too. I hope we don't eventually find General Motors building Corvettes for sale in the European Common Market, and British Motors making compacts and Rolls to sell to us.

Just now, the sports car is built mostly in England, with Italy and Germany not far behind. If you want a bit of handling, some chassis engineering, the feel of a good transmission and an efficient engine, you buy a sports car. You have found the economy and engine durability has been excellent, and this has made it even more fun to own an enjoyable motor car. Due to the small sales volume in sports cars prior to 1956, it is still difficult to find a really low-priced sports car; and once again, high resale value has resulted, making it still nicer to drive a sports car. Now, in 1962 and 1963, a wave of new body styles, new engine and transmission combinations has stimulated a declining market, and, since sports car sales were low in '60 and '61, it is still difficult to find many good used models. Once again, high resale values favor the sports car owner.

It is known in the auto business that those people who buy the new models when a desirable change appears often suffer very little depreciation and drive their cars for years with very little loss. Witness those who bought 1954 Austin-Healys, first of the beautiful sports cars. They still sell for nearly $1,000. The 1955 Thunderbird still brings $1,400 and up, because it is the first one built, and therefore the lowest priced. The early Corvettes, the MG-TDs of the 1950-53 models, and the '54 and '55 TR-2s have given those who bought them new a wonderful lesson in low cost enjoyable motoring, as their resale values approach amazing heights.

The warranties are now very long, and if world events worsen you would have transportation of high quality and good economy for years. Sports car models are few, and so it is much easier to get parts for an auto of one style and one engine size than if there are 24 body styles per year, eight engine and transmission combinations, and 40 upholstery choices. A parts depot for a sports car carries a huge stock, but most important, it usually carries parts for the car you drive. Most Lucas electrical parts, Vandervell bearings, Borg and Beck clutches, etc., fit many brands of cars and are usually interchangeable. You see, most European factories sublet much of their construction. They do not manufacture everything in the manner of Ford or General Motors.

Another feature this year is the introduction of major body changes to insure you of several years of new car styling and lack of forced obsolescence. Most styles, or Mark models, are good for several years without much change. This is due to a lower volume of sales and a less frantic sales program. A car bought today should provide you with a current model for several years. Resale value is again an advantage to you.

British Motors just added roll-up windows to their Austin Healy and restored some economy of operation with better carburetion.

The new MG is called the MG-B and has beautiful Italian design windows, trunk space, fine performance, a whopping increase in engine size, and chassis modifications.

Triumph has a new six of very small size for its Michelotti-designed convertible Sports Six. The new TR-4 is another Italian-bodied roll-up window sports car with a rugged 105 hp engine. The Sprite and MG-Midget now have trunk space, bold Farina-like styling and are really nicely finished.

Alfa Romeo has introduced their long awaited 1600cc engine and has a near perfect sports car in the '63 models.

Sunbeam Alpine has windows, too, for our climate, and Rootes Group have provided many options for the owner who might want to improve his car's performance. The Sunbeam is making a great effort to present you with a fine sports car.

Porsche is offering something tremendous this year, a beautifully modified body style, still Porsche but truly nicer looking. Performance and engineering have been improved in nearly every model.

The Jag XK-E is perhaps the most exciting of cars introduced in years. Lotus of England showed a new sports car at Earl's Court, a plastic-bodied roadster with a center frame of amazing design. Lotus's first sports car of this type, Triumph has a new Sprite-sized little 4-cyl. roadster on the way, called the Spitfire 4, twelve feet long, 24-foot turning circle.

Germany's Opel and Taurus, the entire Renault line from France, plus the exceptional Peugeot are in new bodies and offer more mechanical features.

Just anywhere you turn, this is a year of offering you more. There is a good demand for used sports cars, a low supply from past years and you might make a wise choice if you look at the 1963 sports cars and imports. We'll look at them one at a time in future issues.

FAMED ARTISTS OPEN CARMEL MUSIC SOCIETY SERIES

"You know," said a friend during the intermission of Victoria de Los Angeles's recital in Carmel Tuesday night, "she's pretty damped good. But somehow I don't feel that I'm getting my money's worth." Although I knew what he meant, I asked, "Well, what do you want?"

At this point in the concert Madame de Los Angeles, assisted by Paul Berl at the piano, had sailed through three songs by Mozart plus the "Voi che sapete" from his Marriage of Figaro, and six German Lieder; three by Schumann and three by Brahms. Her incredible ease and restraint; her vocal purity, her leisurly artistry was phenomenal. She leaned lightly on the piano and took her time, rolling out the sounds in Italian and German with a calm, artful assurance that seemed consummate. And in most ways, I suppose it was.

Nevertheless, the applause had dwindled, while everyone sat waiting for the moment when this great Spanish soprano would take hold and transport them to that supreme musical realm where she was known to reign. Finally, she did. For one tantalizing, unanticipated moment (a pre-intermission encore, which is not usual, and which, in this case, the mild applause did not demand), Victoria de Los Angeles reached out and held her audience—entranced, delighted, inspired. And what did she do it with? One of Brahms' lightest, most popular songs—his "Vergibisches Standchen" (The Disappointed Surrender).

On the strength of this, and the superior, if casual, singing that had gone before, I assured my friend he would get his money's worth before the night was out. I didn't look for him later, though, because Madame de Los Angeles coasted through the rest of her recital with the same ease and facility, but on music far inferior to Mozart, Schumann, or Brahms. Aside from three songs by Gabriel Faure, beautifully performed, the balance of the program consisted of a string of Spanish compositions which, at this stage in the history of music, would be cliché-ridden and stale, even if Granados or Manuel de Falla had never existed.

As the applause following each piece gradually subsided to the level of mere courtesy, one began desperately hoping that an encore or two might save the day; something freshly Baroque, like Scarlatti, perhaps, or stringently modern, like Webern. But no. Undaunted, Madame de Los Angeles returned to sing two more stereotyped Spanish tunes, and, crestfallen, we all went home.

A world-famous cellist and an orchestra of international renown played here earlier. The Carmel Music Society opened its 36th season by presenting I Solisti di Zagreb, a chamber orchestra from Yugoslavia conducted by cellist Antonio Janigro.

An evening of listening to twelve string players who have achieved such brilliant rapport and precision, or at another time, to a cellist of Janigro's fiery magnificence would be experiences individually rare. But to hear them together was unique. Although Antonio Janigro soloed once only during the concert, it was to give new luster to a familiar musical antique—the Concerto in B Flat Major by Luigi Boccherini. Otherwise, he employed his vital talent in conducting, and if his approach seemed athletic, it must be added that he is Olympic material and, as such, is a perfectionist.

In an entire evening of radiant string playing the orchestra's most lustrous moment occurred at the end when it performed Mozart's Divertimento in D (K. 136). This is a jewel among compositions for string orchestra, compared with which the earlier programmed works by Pergolesi, Rossini, and Tartini were semi-precious. Here, and in this concert's one modern work (Five Pieces for Strings by Anton Webern) I felt the superiority of I Solisti di Zagreb as a virtuoso ensemble was wedded to music of equal superiority.

Webern's monumental work with its Monteverdian architecture supporting sonorities now a half-century new provoked nervous murmuring and coughing from Sunset Auditorium's packed house, pointing to the peculiar anachronistic relationship of contemporary art and its audience. The many objects dropped on the floor during this performance of Webern's music more than likely would have been thrown by the Viennese when hearing its premiere. But that was fifty years ago.

Kismet An Enjoyable Surprise

So often do reviewers of musical comedy amateur productions find themselves victims of tedious performances with enthusiastic but inadequately rehearsed casts, unheard singing, inelegant costuming, clumsy choreography and lagging musicians, that Kismet, presented the past two week ends by the United States Naval Postgraduate School's Little Theatre as a benefit for the Navy Marine Residences Foundation, was an enjoyable surprise. Credit for the excellence of this performance in almost all of its parts goes to Marlene Paige, producer; Sam Matar, director; Dale Lefler, choreographer; Ann Elmore, musical director; Marie-Beth Hall, production manager; and Gerard T. Bowen, conductor.

No doubt much of the success of Kismet was due to the fact that singers, dancers and musicians of professional calibre were discovered among Navy personnel and their wives or in the community. Nevertheless, the cast of 80 had to be trained and maneuvered on cue about the many stage sets; singers and dancers rehearsed to creditable performance standards; music synchronized with action. This was done admirably.

The only flaws in the otherwise exceptional performance were too much dependence on lengths of vari-colored chiffon for stage effects and costume changes, some crude scenery such as the two arches used in the last part of the show, and a wrinkled blue cotton backdrop which lighting failed to disguise. The only other criticism, and this perhaps because this reviewer saw the last performance, was that many of the ladies' costumes needed pressing.

The burden of weaving the extravaganza into a whole fell on the capable shoulders of Sam Matar. As Hajj, he was a main and amusing character in most of the 14 scenes of Kismet, and never faltered in the perfection of his performance, which included dialogue, songs and dances. His costumes, too, were a joy to behold.

He was ably supported by Charlotte Domville who played the part of Marsinah, Hajj's beautiful daughter; Ron Whitney as her beloved, the Caliph; also John Boles as the Wazir; and Sylvia Davis as Lalume, the Wazir's svelte and mischievous wife. Each of the above projected their voices sufficiently in solo numbers so they could be heard, thus adding immeasurably to the performance.

Among the dancers, special mention is due Jan Clark, Wendy Dorsky and Joani Baldwin, the three identical Princesses of Ababu, for the delightful synchronization in their dance interpretations. Other outstanding dancers were Jeff Short, Carole Anne Alberio, Mark Vance and Jerry Skeels.

The 35-piece orchestra, except for a few incidences when the brasses drowned the soloists, played as professionals.

Notable song presentations included Baubles, Bangles and Beads by Marsinah with a reprise by the Caliph; Stranger in Paradise and This Is My Beloved by the same two singers; Was I Wazir, policemen, guards and Wazir; Not Since Nineveh, Wazir and Lalume; Hajj's numbers, Rhymes Have I, Fate, Gesticulation, Rahadlakum and The Olive Tree; the Three Princesses of Ababu, Akbar, Assiz and chorus in He's In Love; also Night of My Nights in which the entourage supported the Caliph.

Appreciation of Kismet came, as it rightly should, from the capacity audience Saturday evening. Much applause followed individual singing and dancing numbers throughout the show and thundered praise for the whole cast after the finale. —M. L.

of California's Mexican era, as it presents an interesting picture of the events, persons and problems of Larkin and his contemporaries. Letters so often reveal true character and best present persons in relation to events. This is true of the letters Mr. Hawgood selected for First and Last Consul: Thomas A. Larkin and The Americanization of California.

The letters are mostly from the collection of Larkin's papers in the Huntington Library, San Marino, and the library published the book.

John A. Hawgood is professor of modern history and chairman of the School of History in the University of Birmingham, England. He is recognized as an outstanding authority on the history of the Western United States, and was given two summer research grants by the Huntington Library, and two Rockefeller Foundation grants to prepare First and Last Consul.

His research included study in Monterey, and some work on the book was done in Carmel, which he has visited every summer during the past few years.

On 29 October, the State Department of Beaches and Parks invited 100 people to meet John A. Hawgood at a reception in his honor given by Mrs. Alice Larkin Toulmin in her grandfather's home in Monterey. This house, the first two-story home built in California during the years 1835-37, set the

Barbershop Singing In Sunset Concert

On 16 and 17 November the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., will present its eighth annual quartet and chorus concert at Sunset Auditorium.

There has been such a tremendous response in the past few years that the Society this year will present the concert on both Friday and Saturday nights rather than the single Saturday night concert presented in the past. The show will be the same on both nights.

The concert will commence at 8:15 each night. Tickets may be purchased at Browse Around Record Shop in Carmel, Abinante Music Store in Monterey, and Gadsby's Music Co. in Salinas.

Another added attraction is the Salinas Chapter chorus which will perform in addition to the Monterey Peninsula Chorus. Headlining the guest quartets are the Mystics from Sacramento, a success here last year, and the Four Bits of Harmony, an outstanding quartet from the Bay Area. The top local quartets will also perform.

CARMEL VALLEY MAN RECEIVES THEATRE AWARD

Four founders of the Southwest Theatre Conference were honored at a banquet at the University of Oklahoma last week. Awards for outstanding service were also presented by F. Donald Clark, president of the conference and dean of the College of Fine Arts at the University.

Among the award recipients was Theodore Viehman of Carmel Valley, president of the National Theatre Conference, former president of the southwest conference and director of the Tulsa Little Theatre from 1943 to 1961.

BANK REPORTS GROWTH

A report made recently to the Comptroller of the Currency, James J. Saxon, in Washington, D.C., states the Security National Bank of Monterey County reported a deposit increase of 66%, and a 71% increase in total assets over the same date a year ago.

William A. Burkett, president, says that the bank's total number of accounts has increased from some 800 to over 5,800 during the past 12 months.

subsequent style of California colonial architecture. The Larkin House, restored and furnished by Mrs. Toulmin, is a state historical monument open to the public.

The jacket of First and Last Consul is a reproduction of a key plan, Harbour and City of Monterey, 1942, made that year. Mr. Hawgood dedicated the volume to Mrs. Toulmin. —Marjory Lloyd.

FILM FESTIVAL

Tomorrow, final day of the San Francisco International Film Festival, motion pictures in two categories will be shown at the Metro Theatre. Film As Communication is the theme of the third annual competition for 16 mm non-theatrical films.

From 11 a.m. - 2:45 p.m., the seven finalists in films sponsored by industry will be screened. In the afternoon, 2:45 - 5:30 o'clock, adult education films for direct screening or television will be shown. The public may attend free of charge.

David Farr Engaged

Dr. and Mrs. Ivan Milhous of Arcata have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ellen, to David Farr, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Farr of Carmel.

Both young people are seniors at Humboldt State College, and plan an early summer wedding following their graduation. Ellen, whose father is on the Humboldt State faculty, is an elementary education major, active in the Student California Teachers Association, and is a member of the Green and Gold Key, a scholarship and activities society.

Majoring in botany, David serves as teaching assistant in the department of biological sciences at the college. His father is instructor of music at Carmel High School and instructor of instrumental music at Sunset School. Diana, a senior at Carmel High School, and Kathy, a sophomore, are his sisters.

Ellen has a sister, Elizabeth, a student at Dominican College, and a brother, Douglas, who attends Arcata High School.

Jean Pistulka Weds

At home in Carmel after a surprise wedding 21 October are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Beal.

The former Jean Pistulka, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pistulka of Carmel, asked Sue King of Sacramento to be her attendant at the simple ceremony performed by the Reverend Don Johnson at Carmel Valley Chapel. The bridegroom's brother, James Beal, was best man.

Jean has a sister, Judy, and a brother, Joseph. She is a 1961 graduate of Carmel High School and last year attended Monterey Peninsula College. She works for an insurance agency in Carmel.

Her husband, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beal of San Mateo, graduated from Davis High School and is a student at MPC.

Because of working and studying, the young couple postponed a honeymoon trip until Christmas, when they plan to go to the mountains for skiing.

Anniversary Spent In City

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marcolli of Carmel drove to San Francisco recently for three days of activity and relaxation to celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. They took in the horse races, the cable cars, and the Top of the Mark, were joined by Mr. Marcolli's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marcolli, for an anniversary dinner at Bimbo's. The Frank Marcollis were celebrating an anniversary of their own, so it was a double festivity.

Schroders New Residents

Preceding his family from Hacienda Heights to Carmel where last month he opened the new His and Hers Jewelry Shop, was Sven Schroder, a new resident as well as new businessman here.

When their former home in the Los Angeles suburb is sold, Sven says, he will be joined here by Mrs. Schroder (Tove), his assistant in the new venture; Robert, 9; Richard, 7; Randolph, 5, and Rene, 3.

Both Sven and Tove are natives of Copenhagen, where Sven received the training which now qualifies him as an expert watchmaker. The shop is in the Court of the Golden Eagle on Lincoln Street.

Richard Lofton Home

Arriving home just in time for election day, Richard Lofton was met by his wife, Nancy, and his younger daughter, Melissa, at the Monterey airport Monday evening, after a five weeks' visit to the Southeast.

Dick cruised the inland waterway along the coast of Virginia and the Carolinas with Philip C. Smith and Dr. Russell Williams, then fulfilled portrait commissions in Beaufort, South Carolina, Maryland, and Alabama.

All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel was the setting for their marriage on Saturday. The 4 p.m. service was read by the Reverend David Hill before a large group of friends from the Monterey Peninsula and the San Francisco Bay area. The church was lighted by many tall tapers and decorated with rice bowls of lemon leaves.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Dr. Clark J. Burnham of Piedmont, chose a white peau de soie gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, three-quarter length sleeves and a round neckline. The slim, floor-length skirt was trimmed with bands of duchesse lace. A cluster of small French roses at the waist held the circular train. A short, full veil was held in place with a peau de soie bow. Her flowers were lilies of the valley.

Attendants were the bride's sisters, Mrs. George Hynes, Jr. (Gray Burnham) of Greenbrae, and Wendy Burnham, who attends Wellesley; and four Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters of the bride, Cissy Coberly of Los Angeles, Patricia Gooch of Pasadena, Kate Mills of Berkeley, and Mrs. Richard Dumke (Sherry Topping) of Piedmont. They were dressed alike in avocado green silk faille frocks with square necklines, fitted bodices, and soft pleated skirts. Bows of the same material were their headdresses, and they carried arrangements of small flame-colored roses, and lemon leaves.

Kent Casady of El Cajon served as best man. Seating the guests were George Hynes, Jr., of Greenbrae, Phillip Shoppell of San Francisco, Lt. John Sells of Washington, Ensign Robert Hinton of Atherton, and Richard Dumke of Piedmont.

At the reception, the receiving line formed in front of a gold screen bordered by Eugenia trees. Lighted Eugenia trees and arrangements of magnolia leaves decorated the other rooms of the McKenney home. Silver urns filled with white stock were placed on both sides of the tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. McKenney greeted the guests in a cocoa peau de soie gown with which she wore a small hat of satin in a deeper shade.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Richard W. Holt chose to wear an aquamarine brocade sheath dress and jacket and a sable hat.

When the couple left Pebble Beach for their honeymoon trip to San Ysidro Ranch in Santa Barbara, the bride was wearing a red wool suit with black accessories and a black fur hat. They will make their home in Oakland.

The bride has been living in San Francisco since graduating from the University of California, where she was affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma. The late Dr. and Mrs. Clark J. Burnham of Berkeley, and the late Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Chapman of Piedmont were her grandparents.

Ensign Holt's mother flew here from Brussels, Belgium, for the wedding. His father was the late Richard W. Holt. Mrs. William S. Jett, III, of Palo Alto, is his sister, and he is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ross L. Mahon of Port Huron, Michigan.

He attended Carmel schools, is a 1961 graduate of Annapolis, and is currently attached to the U.S.S. Midway, based at Alameda.

Charltons Visit Here

Recent guests of Mrs. Aimee Charlton were her son, Major John B. Charlton, and her grandchildren, Valerie and Gregory Charlton. In United States Military Intelligence, Major Charlton is stationed in Okinawa, and recently completed a tour of duty in Thailand.

Mrs. John Charlton recently underwent surgery at Letterman Hospital, and will remain in San Francisco for two months. Major Charlton and the children will fly back to Okinawa this week.

Two Grandchildren Visit

Enjoying the good beach weather, two of Mrs. D. MacMillan Kerr's eight grandchildren, Roy and Bruce Hartzell, were her recent visitors with their mother, Mrs. Charlotte Kerr Hartzell of Santa Clara. Roy, 14, is a freshman at Robert Louis Stevenson School; Bruce, 12, attends school in Santa Clara. Their older brother, Lloyd, recently married, lives in Los Gatos.

The rest of Mrs. Kerr's clan includes two other daughters, Mrs.

E. E. Young (Penelope Kerr, who attended Carmel High School) of New Jersey, and Mrs. William Little of San Francisco, and her son, D. MacMillan Kerr, Jr., of Santa Clara.

Son Born To Porters

A son, Daniel Wayne, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gary W. Porter of Carmel on 21 October at the Community Hospital.

OBITUARIES

Julia Hurlbut Bissell

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia Hurlbut Bissell, wife of Brigadier General John T. Bissell (USA ret.), were held Saturday in the Paul Mortuary Chapel. The Reverend Peter Farmer of All Saints' Episcopal Church officiated. Her death occurred on 30 October following a period of failing health.

Mrs. Bissell was born in Norwalk, Connecticut. During her younger years, she was an active worker in the women's suffrage movement. With other notable women concerned with this cause, Mrs. Bissell was jailed in Washington, D.C., for three days after the group picketed the White House. She received an official pardon from President Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Bissell met her husband during World War I when she was a YWCA worker in France, and they were married there in 1919. She came with her husband to live here 12 years ago.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Bissell is survived by a daughter, Barbara Bissell of Laramie, Wyoming; also two nephews and two nieces.

Burial was arranged to take place in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Friends wishing to honor Mrs. Bissell's memory may do so in the form of donations to the Carmel Foundation, Box 3424, Carmel.

John Melville

John Melville-von-Carnbee, author of the bestseller, Guide to California Wines, died on Saturday afternoon in Stanford Hospital, Palo Alto, of a cerebral hemorrhage following several months of ill health. A Dutch baron, Mr. Melville relinquished his title when he became a United States citizen following World War II. He had been a resident of Carmel since 1931.

John Melville was born in The Hague, Holland. His father was at one time the Dutch Ambassador to Spain, and his mother, before her marriage, was Henrietta Low Edwards of Philadelphia. Herman Melville, the writer, was a relative.

After receiving a degree in international law at Leyden University in Holland, Mr. Melville planned to enter The Netherlands diplomatic service. Knowledge acquired in the wine cellars owned by his father led him, instead, to come to the United States and be publicity agent for a champagne importer in New York, also purchasing agent for an American firm.

He met his wife, Willy, in Washington. She was also a Dutch citizen attached to The Netherlands mission and NATO staff. Later they both became naturalized citizens of the United States. In 1951, Mr. Melville and his wife came to live in Carmel and established their home on Hatton Fields Mesa.

A founder of the local Food and Wine Society, he also was active in many phases of community life, and aided the establishment of the Bishop Kip School, elementary day school of All Saints' Episcopal parish, Carmel, and was on its board of directors at the time of his death. He was a member of All Saints' Church.

Besides his wife, Mr. Melville leaves two sons, Peter and Christopher, both of Carmel.

Memorial services will be held at All Saints' Church, the date to be announced later.

Theresa Root

Mrs. Theresa Root, a Carmel resident for the past 12 years, whose home was at Monte Verde Street and Seventh Avenue, died 5 November in a local hospital. She had been in failing health for a long time.

Mrs. Root was born in New York City on 3 May, 1880. Her husband, Charles T. Root, died in 1958.

She is survived by a son, Chester M. Root of Carmel.

Private funeral services were held in Paul Mortuary.

John Vaninetti

John B. Vaninetti, 52, a former artichoke grower in Carmel Valley, died 5 November in a Salinas hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Vaninetti was born in Great Barrington, Massachusetts. He came to Carmel Valley in 1929 and farmed there until 1944 when he moved to Salinas.

He is survived by his wife, Alice. Burial took place this morning in the Castroville Community Cemetery following requiem mass in Our Lady of Refuge Church.

Marie S. Currie

Mrs. Marie S. Currie, 81, whose home for many years was on Carmel Point at Rio Road and Sixteenth Avenue, died 30 October in Los Angeles following a long illness. Her husband was the late Arthur Bissell Currie.

Survivors are a sister, Mrs. Eleanor Stewart Rohde of Honolulu, Hawaii; a niece, Mrs. Geraldine Seiser Selby, and a nephew, Richard S. Shideler of Pasadena.

Dorothy Crain Gahan

Following a brief illness, Mrs. Dorothy Crain Gahan, a resident of Carmel for 24 years, died on 1 November in a local hospital. She was the wife of Colonel John Gahan (USA ret.). Their home was on Scenic Drive at Seventh Avenue.

Mrs. Gahan was born in Chicago, Illinois, on 16 August, 1890.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Florence Gaston of Washington, D.C.

Funeral services were held on Monday in Mission Mortuary. Chaplain G. L. Markel (USA ret.) officiated. Burial followed in the National Cemetery in the Presidio of San Francisco.

Friends wishing to honor Mrs. Gahan's memory may do so in the form of donations to their favorite charities.

... Churches ...

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The enlightened nature of the man of God's creating will be explained Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Selections from the Bible in the Lesson - Sermon on the subject "Adam and Fallen Man" will include these verses from Ephesians (5): "Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children; . . . For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (p. 200): "The great truth in the Science of being, that the real man was, is, and ever shall be perfect, is incontrovertible; for if man is the image, reflection, of God, he is neither inverted nor subverted, but upright and Godlike."

OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY, SUNDAY 1 to 5

DRIVE DOWN Ocean Avenue past the Pine Inn to Casanova. Turn right and go almost to Fourth Street. It's a gray stucco with a heavy shake roof on your right, two houses South of Fourth. There are 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, electric kitchen, fireplace, single garage. It's only a year old and the price is just $29,000 with the very best financing available. Come on down and see what you could do with a little landscaping in the lovely oak trees. Abby Patenaude is your hostess. For information call the office or MAYfair 4-8606.

A LOW-PRICED, REALLY GOOD LOT

IT'S WOODED with a gentle slope in the Carmel Highlands. It's the best thing we've had for a year at the low price of $7,990. The owner will accept $3,000 down payment, so you couldn't lose even if you later decided to resell at a profit instead of building. Call Mark Goldes for directions.

WE PAY TRIBUTE

TO ALL veterans on Monday next, and say a personal thank-you for all they did for us. We personally know that Old Soldiers Never Die—they come to Carmel and live forever and ever, bless them!

DR. GEORGE HUNTER HALL

Sunday at the Carmel Presbyterian Church, the new minister, the Reverend Dr. George Hunter Hall, will preach his first sermon; his theme: Our Call To Mission. There will be a nursery at the identical 9 and 11 o'clock services.

Born in St. Louis, Dr. Hall graduated from high school in Los Angeles, and received his A.B. degree, magna cum laude, from Chapman College. After securing his B.D. and M.A. from San Francisco Theological Seminary, he was awarded an alumni fellowship which granted him graduate training in the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, and at the University of Edinburgh. Both Monmouth College and Occidental College have awarded him honorary doctor of divinity degrees.

Ordained into the ministry in 1933 by Los Angeles Presbytery, Dr. Hall served as pastor of the First and Second Presbyterian churches in Los Angeles, and associate pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, before going to Phoenix where he became the pastor of the First Church of that city for a period of twelve years. In 1960 he assumed the position of executive of the Synod of Arizona, and was in this position of responsibility at the time he accepted the unanimous call of the Carmel Presbyterian congregation to become their new minister.

For the national church, Dr. Hall has served on the Board of National Missions, the Commission of Evangelism of the Presbyterian Church, and the Board of Trustees of the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

Mrs. Hall and their two married children are alumni of Occidental College.

RUSTY, EDNA ARE BACK AT HOB NOB RESTAURANT

In 1952 and 1953 one of the most popular businessmen's luncheon spots was the Hob Nob, at Dolores and Seventh. In 1962, and thereafter, it may once again become so. Edna (Mrs. Ben C. Killian) and Rusty (Mrs. Frank Lucido) have reopened the restaurant, featuring their popular homemade pies, cakes, pastries and hot breads.

The souffle and the corned beef and cabbage, hungrily sought after, are again on the menu, an attractive as well as appetizing card, designed by Erica Franke.

While only breakfast and lunch are now being served, Edna and Rusty intend to commence serving dinners after the first of the year. The Hob Nob is closed on Thursdays.

A Lamb At School

is a breeding-type sheep or a meat-type sheep.

If it is a castrated animal, it is already well past its prime, since it is now over six months old, and therefore no longer good shishkabob by butchers' standards, hence costing the co-op quite a bit of cash, at least on paper. And if it is a ram, then it should be presented with a mate (more money) very soon.

Senator Farr himself has offered no enlightenment whatever in this matter.

But the tide of opinion among the mothers now seems to be that the lamb is not a ram after all.

Plans for having the children name their pet also had to be sacked when it was discovered the group was about to emerge with 29 different names, each receiving one vote each. (In a burst of combined egotism, each youngster wanted the lamb named after himself.)

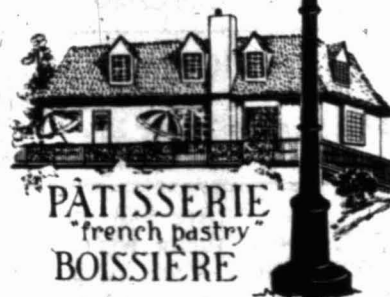

On the bright side of this affair, which has already cost the organization more than $100 for the sheep corral alone, not counting the cost of beer consumed by the volunteer working fathers, it is obvious that all the children love the lamb extravagantly. They especially enjoy feeding it up to its woolly ears with the alfalfa and other stuff for which their parents are generously bearing the cost.

And come next spring, no matter what the wether (sorry, but it just crept in), the cooperative pet will be shorn of his coat in plain sight of 58 watchful and loving eyes.
